Give your doctor consent to view your health records

HealthID is the technology that gives your doctor fast, up-to-date access to your health information. Once you have given consent, your doctor can use HealthID to access your medical history, gain insight into the benefits of your health plan, make referrals to other healthcare professionals, study your blood test results, and write electronic prescriptions and referrals.

What it means when you give your doctor consent

For doctors to view your confidential medical information, they first need to get your consent. Your medical information is protected and will only be viewed by the doctors you choose.

When you give consent, you agree you understand that the Electronic Health Record (EHR) contains details about any chronic conditions you may have, as well as pathology results, which includes blood tests. Your consent also confirms that you understand how we protect this confidential information and how we comply with laws about dealing with confidential information of this kind.

For your medical scheme to provide the correct cover for your condition, your doctor may need to release information about your treatment to Discovery Health. We need you to give your consent to confirm that you agree to this exchange of information and that you understand the terms and conditions for registering on the Chronic Illness Benefit.

These are the ways you can give your consent before you see your doctor
